ACTION ON AMENDMENTS. When Senator Beveridge had concluded his speech on the bill (printed elsewhere) Mr. Foraker asked that the Senate proceed with the consideration of amendments.

The first amendment was one imposing a duty of 5 cents a pound on coffee imported into Porto Rico. Mr. Pettus moved to strike out the amendment, which motion involved the question whether a tax could be imposed on products imported into Porto Rico which was not imposed on the same produts imported into "other parts of the United States." Mr. Gallinger defended the amendment of the committee. During the Spanish regime he said, a tariff had been imposed on coffee imported into Porto Rico because the coffee raised there is regarded as the best in the world and it was desired to prevent it from being spoiled by being blended with inferior brands

"If you have a free hand to mutilate the Constitution," said Mr. Pettus, "then you can pass this bill, but if the Constitution means anything when it says that taxes and duties shall be uniform, then you have Mr. Pettus's amendment was defeated

Mr. Bacon offered an amendment in the form of a substitute for Sections 2 and 3 of the committee bill establishing the regular Dingley tariff rates of duty on articles imported from foreign countries into Porto Rico, and providing that no duties shall be from the United States or into the United in Porto Rico the tariff system in vogue in this country.

Mr. Gallinger said the bill as it stood was infinitely more liberal than was the amendment offered by Mr. Bacon. "The committee," said he, "had only one object in view, and that was to so legislate for the Porto Rican people as to render them happy, contented and prosperous." Mr. Lindsay offered an amendment to Mr.

Bacon's amendment providing for absolute free trade between the United States and Porto Rico, saying: "I offer this amendment because Porto Rico is an American sland, because its inhabitants are American citizens, because the people were mised the rights of American citizens General Miles, and because the President and secretary of war declared it was our 'plain duty' to give the Porto Rican ple free trade. Mr. Bacon accepted the amendment, and at his request the amendment went over TARIFF FEATURE STANDS. Mr. Pettus then moved to strike out the provision in Section 3 providing for a duty passed over until to-morrow.

Mr. Morgan offered an amendment to the section of the bill which proposes to reem the Porto Rican silver coins in United States money, giving 60 cents of American money for the Porto Rican peso. Mr. Morgan held that in the proposed exchange of coins the United States was taking advantage of the Porto Ricans, because the peso contained the same amount of silver as the American dollar. The Porto Ricans, he said, are entitled to 100 cents for their peso. ecause that amount of silver in money uld be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Mr. nes of Arkansas and Mr. Bacon took the

Mr. Foraker maintained that the position of the Democratic senators was not correct. There was no intention to deprive the Porto Ricans of any value, as the American dollar now was worth in debtpaying power practically two pesos in Porto Rico. He believed the proposition of the CONSTANTINOPLE, March 29 .- The Porte has informed the United States legation that in future the importation of American pork will be prohibited, giving as Faris came home from Washington to a reason for the prohibition that the meat is injurious to the public health, Lloyd C. Griscom, United States charge d'affaires, protested energetically, demanding the annullment of the measure.

WASHINGTON, March 29 .- Mr. Groscum has acted of his own volition in lodging the protest, for the State Department has not yet been informed of the prohibition of the Turkish government. It may be stated, however, that his action levied on articles imported into Porto Rico | thoroughly commended by the officials, and he will be supported to the utmost in his organization was opposing him. It is replained that it was his purpose to establish protest. While it cannot be so stated offi- ported that Mr. McKeen also understood the action of the Turkish government is directly attributable to the secret influence of some continental powers, whose position in resistance to the demands of the United States for the admission of American meat products might be strengthened could they point to similar exclusive action by other powers based on sanitary considerations.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson said today that he had no official information that Turkey has prohibited the importation of American pork. "If it has been decided to bar out all pork," said the secretary, "there can be no cause for complaint but if American pork is discriminated against we will have good cause to protest, as there can be no valid reason for excluding it, as it is the best in the world. It is probable the action of the Porte was taken on religious grounds, as the religion of the Turks prohibits them from eating pork. Faris struck the first blow, but bystandars say that when he walked away bleeding freely he seemed to have had the worst of the fight, on points. As he left the scene he called to Pugh that he would "See him again."

While there has been a great deal of bad feeling in the Republican factions, and Mr. Faris's withdrawal as a candidate for renomination tended to make matters worse, no one expected a street fight, and surely not between Mr. Faris and Horace Pugh, first, because neither was thought to be likely to be involved in a street affray, whatever might be his personal feeling. and in the second place, because Mr. Pugh had long been regarded as one of Mr. Faris's steadfast friends. At the time Mr. consult his friends about withdrawing he is said to have assured them that he would not decide until after he had looked over the field. Some of them claim that he had already decided, and that his decision to withdraw was to be in favor of James S. Barcus. Quarrel Over Wolcott's Nomination.

pecial to the Indianapolis Journal. RENSSELAER, Ind., March 29.-The Republican papers of this city have repudiated the nomination of Eben H. Wolcott at the Goodland convention, held on last Tuesday, for joint senator for the counties of White, Jasper and Newton. Mr. Wolcott received 27 3-10 votes and Mr. Coover, of this county, received 26 7-10 votes. It is alleged that the Wolcott faction in Newton county, by a process unknown in legitimate politics, gave a portion of the Coover support to Mr. Wolcott, thereby consummating his nomination. The correctness of the Newton county vote as announced by the chairman was questioned by the delegates to the convention, but before the matter could be fully decided the Wolcott faction broke up the convention by loud yells and by bringing a brass band into the hall at an opportune time. The Republican papers of this city demand another convention and the withdrawal of Mr. Wolcott. As it is essential for Mr. Wolcott to have the Republican vote of this county to be elected, the matter presents a rather serious phase in Republican circles.

Dreyer's attorneys claim that the mittimus in their client's case, which provides that he should be confined until released by the State Board of Pardons was in error, in that the parole law of 1895 provided that the State Board of Pardons has no authority to release, but only to recommend such action to the Governor, constituted an error sufficient to warrant his release. Dreyer's attorneys have also raised the technical point that Dreyer had twice been placed in jeopardy by the dismissal of the jury in a former trial before a decision had been reached. When Attorney Mayer finished his argument to-day, Judge Dunne asked the State's attorneys if the mittimi were printed forms. MINERS AND OPERATORS JOURNED THE JOINT CONFERENCE.

Will Consult with Principals Concerning the Powder Question. Which Will Be Settled Next Month.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 29.-When the Indiana operators and miners adagain April 10, it was done in the best of good humor and with the mutual understanding that the time was needed in which to adjust certain matters so that the wages contract could be signed April 10 without further delay. All the difficulty was on the powder question. The miners had yielded the demand for the weekly pay day, and it is understood that in their convention the the semi-monthly pay day if the operators would not insist on binding the men to buy powder from the employing operator. Many der trust and the operators' new company the miners to buy from the operators. Therefore it was deemed advisable to give them time to consult with their local

On the part of the operators the time was wanted in which the operators could adjust the powder business so as to remove miners have been asking to have the powder price fixed in the signed contract, but the operators, while holding that they were contract. Now, when the operators had mate of the gunboat Machias on March miners were cf a mind to patronize the powder trust's representatives, who were has been understood all along that if the trust succeeded in running the operators' powder company out of business the price | pistols, shotguns and clubs were used. Harof powder would be advanced. The understanding is that some sort of agreement will be reached in the powder business by which the operators can make a contract with the miners to continue selling powder at $1.75 a keg. In the proposition submitted by the operators at the beginning of the present conference it was provided that the price of powder should be advanced in proportion to the amount of advance in the price paid to the miner for mining. This would mean $2.10 a keg under the new 80cent scale for mining as agreed on by the interstate conference. The operators have waived that provision and will begin at $1.75. They will be willing to adopt the provision of the Illinois contract, which is as follows: "That the price per keg for powder be $1.75, the miners agreeing to purhase their powder from the operators, provided they furnish powder of standard grade and quality, that to be determined by the operators and expert miners jointly where there is a difference." The Indiana operators say that they have a right to be put on equal terms with the operators of the other States which are parties to the interstate agreement, and that the understanding at Indianapolis was that they were to have the benefit of the profit in the powder trade and which has been conceded y the miners in other States to operators'

The paragraphs of the contract that will have to be agreed on after the powder question shall have been settled will be easily disposed of. One is that the time for beginning work shall be in the morning and the length of intermission at noon shall be considered a local question. The paragraph fixing the "eight-hour day" is as fol-"That the above scale is based upon an eight-hour work day; that it is definitely understood that this shall mean eight hours work at the face, exclusive of the noon time; six days in the week, or forty-eight hours in the week, and that no local ruling shall in any way deviate from this agreement, or impose conditions affecting the same, but any class of day labor may be paid at the option of the operator for the number of hours and fraction thereof actually worked at the hour rate, based on oneeighth of the scale rate per day, provided that when the men go into the mine in the morning they shall be entitled to two hours' pay, whether the mine works or not, as provided in the above agreement for inside day labor; providing, further, that overtime of day labor shall be paid for at the same rate per hour.' Another paragraph provides for arbitraion when a difference arises between the operator and miners at any mine, and that work shall not be suspended pending setlement. If the parties themselves cannot mmediately reach an agreement the question shall be referred to a board of arbitration of two operators selected by the operator interested and two miners selected y District No. 11 of the United Mine Workers. If the four cannot agree they must select a fifth member.

Block Coal Deadlock Expected. BRAZIL, Ind., March 29.-A committee meeting of block coal miners and operators is being held here in the offices of the Brazil Block Coal Company. Only preliminary matters are being discussed, and no attempt at a settlement will be made until to-morrow morning, when a full delegate meeting of both operators and miners will se held. But little hope of an adjustment is held by either the miners or operators, as the powder question is expected to prove an effective stumbling block, even if the matter of a weekly pay day is waived by

BOERS IN FORCE.

(CONCLUDED FROM FIRST PAGE.) laid its grip on the lower. Then during successive nights the unseen arm was extended between the rivers and the Modder was seized 'The great moment came when, with a hand on either stream, a threatening hand to every movement of its opponent, the cavairy division was flung forward in a wide sweep to the northeastward, and Kimberley was relieved. Relieved almost without a shot fired or a man lost; relieved, and at the same moment made a menace to the force which had awaited confidently its fall for months. That is strategy. Cronje, who needs no instruction in such a matter, knew it for what it was, saw in the swiftness and daring of the hands which had encompassed him that he was playing at last with a master in the game of war, and, with a resolution as swift as it was sound, flung over the hopes on which he had so long been building, threw his dreams to the winds and fled "It is not every commander that knows the hour of abandonment as well as the moment for assault, and is as willing to break his plans as to make them, but Cronje is one of them. Only his experience of our methods made him a day late. He still counted on our indecision, and his security betrayed him. Despite a wonderful march from Magersfontein, his rear guard was struck at Klip Kraal drift, on the Modder, and a beautifully handled rear guard action could not shake off troops which had come upon tired enough, hungry enough, but as eager for battle as he was to evade it. They hung to his flanks for two nights and a day, and on the next Cronje found a foe in front of him as well, for with scarcely a day's rest for hard-worked horses French had swung out of Kimberley and stood between him and home. Behind his enemy was growing stronger with every moment which delayed him; in front was the very force he could have no hopes to elude, a force of mounted men and mounted guns, equal to his own in mobility, superior in effectiveness. In a like position almost any European army would have done its best to cut through to the open, and, failing, would have surrendered. "But dashing tactics suit the Boer as little as yielding is suited to Cronje. reply was 'the rats.' He and his force sank suddenly into the river bed, sank as completely out of sight as though they

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: I noticed in yesterday's paper something about the trouble the clubs have got into, and I was struck with the intensely womanish twang of the whole thing. I am just a plain, old-fashioned female person who never belonged to anything except my own family, and do not know a parliamentary rule from a Persian proverb, but I do know when women write things that sound feminine, and I should like to remind your "Club Woman" correspondent that being "amusing" is a game that two or more can play at. I think the fling at the South which she "fires" at Mrs. Lowe one of the most uselessly ill-natured things I ever Japan has arrived at Nagasaki. The saw. Your correspondent says the club women will go "calmly" on enjoying the company of their fathers, sons, husbands and sweethearts. If this particular lady goes on calmly she will have to change her frame of mind. Besides, though one might calmly enjoy the company of one's father, husband and son, isn't it too much to expect her to enjoy the company of her sweetheart "calmly?" In the enumeration of the male relatives brothers are omitted. but I presume this was not intentional. Now, I haven't an idea what any of the trouble is about; I only know that to an outsider it all seems silly and useless, and that one cannot resist a feeling that women might easily find something better to do. Have the fathers, sons, husbands and sweethearts been heard from? My impression is that they do take these meetings very "calmly," even stolcally. Not lone ago I heard a prominent Indiana man say, trict Court at Boston, overruled a motion to quash the indictment against Charles I. in describing a meeting of the Federation former president of the wrecked of Clubs he had attended: "I saw a number of handsomely-gowned women, a few mor and a good many old ladies of both seres." I did not inquire into his real meaning; he is given to expressing himself whimsically but I gathered that he had been rather bored. He ought to be typical, for he was a husband, father, son and sweetheart If you will pardon a further trespass on your space I will add, just to save the woman who would to-morrow communicate with you, the trouble, that I am an illiterate and light-minded person who has never been deemed of sufficient mental caliber to belong to a club or I might be able to express myself differently. That such festumbling block to progress I admit with out argument, and humbly sign myself ONE OF EVE'S FAMILY.
